Why did we assess in the Office of Residence Life?

- Upcraft and Schuh provide solid reasons:
 - Quality
 - Survival/Accountability
 - Strategic Planning
 - Politics
- Our focus:
 - Strategic Planning and Quality
 - Development of departmental and programmatic goals and learning outcomes
 - Our vision:
 - to be the nation's leading student-centered residence life program

Elements of Good Assessment

- Good Assessment...
 - Asks important questions
 - Reflects the departmental/institutional mission
 - Reflects identified learning outcomes
 - Is linked to a plan for decision making
 - Encourages involvement
 - Contains relevant assessment techniques
 - Is shareable and leads to reflection

Developing a Strategic Plan for Assessment

- Begin the dialogue: assessment begins with knowing what you want
- Define your assessment vision: what do you hope to accomplish?
- Make some assumptions: what kind of resources exist?
- Decide on a guiding model: how will you assess?
- Operationalize your plan: assign responsibilities and roles

Beginning the Dialogue – Step 1

- Do not do a study that no one really wants
- Determine the confidentiality
- Determine who should be involved
- Plan to conduct a good study
- Understand what kinds of information you will need to provide in a report

Office of Residence Life – Beginning the Dialogue

- Dialogue began in 1997 – 1998
- 6 strategic objectives for assessment within the Office of Residence Life:
 - Train the Office of Residence Life staff in assessment
 - Support Office of Residence Life staff in assessment initiatives
 - Develop assessment-based resources
 - Increase knowledge about our residential students
 - Increase knowledge about our Resident Advisor staff
 - Use assessment to increase departmental and program effectiveness
- Annual and one-time projects identified
- Internet assessment software identified (Infopoll)
- Money spent on software and staff training
- Formal and informal reporting mechanisms identified

Defining Your Assessment Vision – Step 2

■ 3 Primary Steps

- Determine who will be the audience for the results
- Determine the appropriate format(s) of the study
- Involve the key stakeholders in the planning of the study and allow them to review instrument drafts

Office of Residence Life – Defining Our Assessment Vision

- To contribute to the Division of Student Affairs Assessment Vision:
 - To develop and enhance our efforts to gather, analyze, and interpret evidence which describes institutional, divisional, departmental, or unit effectiveness.
- Assessment Committee formed
 - Composed of the following for 2004 – 2005:
 - Coordinator for Assessment, Operations, and Technology (committee chair)
 - 1 Associate Director of Residence Life
 - 2 Residence Directors
 - 1 Graduate Assistant for Assessment
 - 1 Administrative Secretary
- Internet assessment software identified (Infopoll)
- Involve students, faculty, and staff in the planning, as appropriate

Making Assumptions About Resources – Step 3

- Do you have the money?
- Do you have the ability to analyze data?
- Do you have cooperation of department and key stakeholders?
- Do you have people to assist in the data collection?
- Are you able to afford incentives?
- Is your organization supportive?

Office of Residence Life – Making Assumptions About Resources

- Assessment Committee budget established
- Graduate Assistant for Assessment with statistical analysis ability (i.e., SAS)
- Assessment is one of the foundational areas within the Office of Residence Life
- Assessment Committee assists with data collection / Infopoll survey software is utilized for data collection
- Gift certificate packages are offered as incentives for each assessment project

Developing an Assessment Model – Step 4

- Describes the following:
 - Your departmental or organizational mission/vision/values
 - Strategic objectives:
 - Learning outcomes
 - Behavioral indicators
 - Key performance indicators
 - Activity designed to impact students
 - How strategic objectives will be measured
 - Benchmarking over time
 - Reporting of results and feedback from stakeholders

Office of Residence Life – Developing an Assessment Model

Learning Outcome	Activity	Did the activity happen?	What did the activity do?	What was the perception of the activity?	Benchmarking over time
Describe 3 ways in which the floor community can support academic coursework	Individually design a drawing or model depicting academic support in a residence hall floor community	Yes	Required students to design a drawing or model demonstrating academic support in the floor community	Students were able to demonstrate what they learned regarding ways they can support each other as a floor community in their academics	Will be conducted at the end of each fall semester

Operationalize Your Assessment Plan – Step 5

- Assign specific tasks and roles
- Decide on formal and informal reporting plan
- Identify a dissemination plan
- Use your experience to revisit your overall strategic plan for assessment

Office of Residence Life – Operationalize the Assessment Plan

- Tasks assigned to members of the Assessment Committee
- Informal Reporting Plan:
 - The Orange Slice[®] is sent to the following:
 - Approximately 87 faculty and staff throughout the University
 - 49 staff members within the Office of Residence Life
 - 146 Resident Advisors
 - Copies to all Office of Residence Life staff (professional and paraprofessional) include a discussion guide to help stimulate conversations among staff and students
- Formal Reporting Plan
 - Sent to approximately 42 faculty and staff throughout the University in addition to the 49 staff within the Office of Residence Life
 - A shorter formal report is sent to the Division of Student Affairs Assessment Committee

Informal Report

- Distribute more widely than formal report
- Can serve to start discussions throughout campus
- Suggested Format:
 - Title
 - Summary of project
 - Response rate and brief description of the sample
 - 4 or 5 questions and responses (use graphical representation and benchmarking data, when possible)
 - Contact information for more information

Report Writing

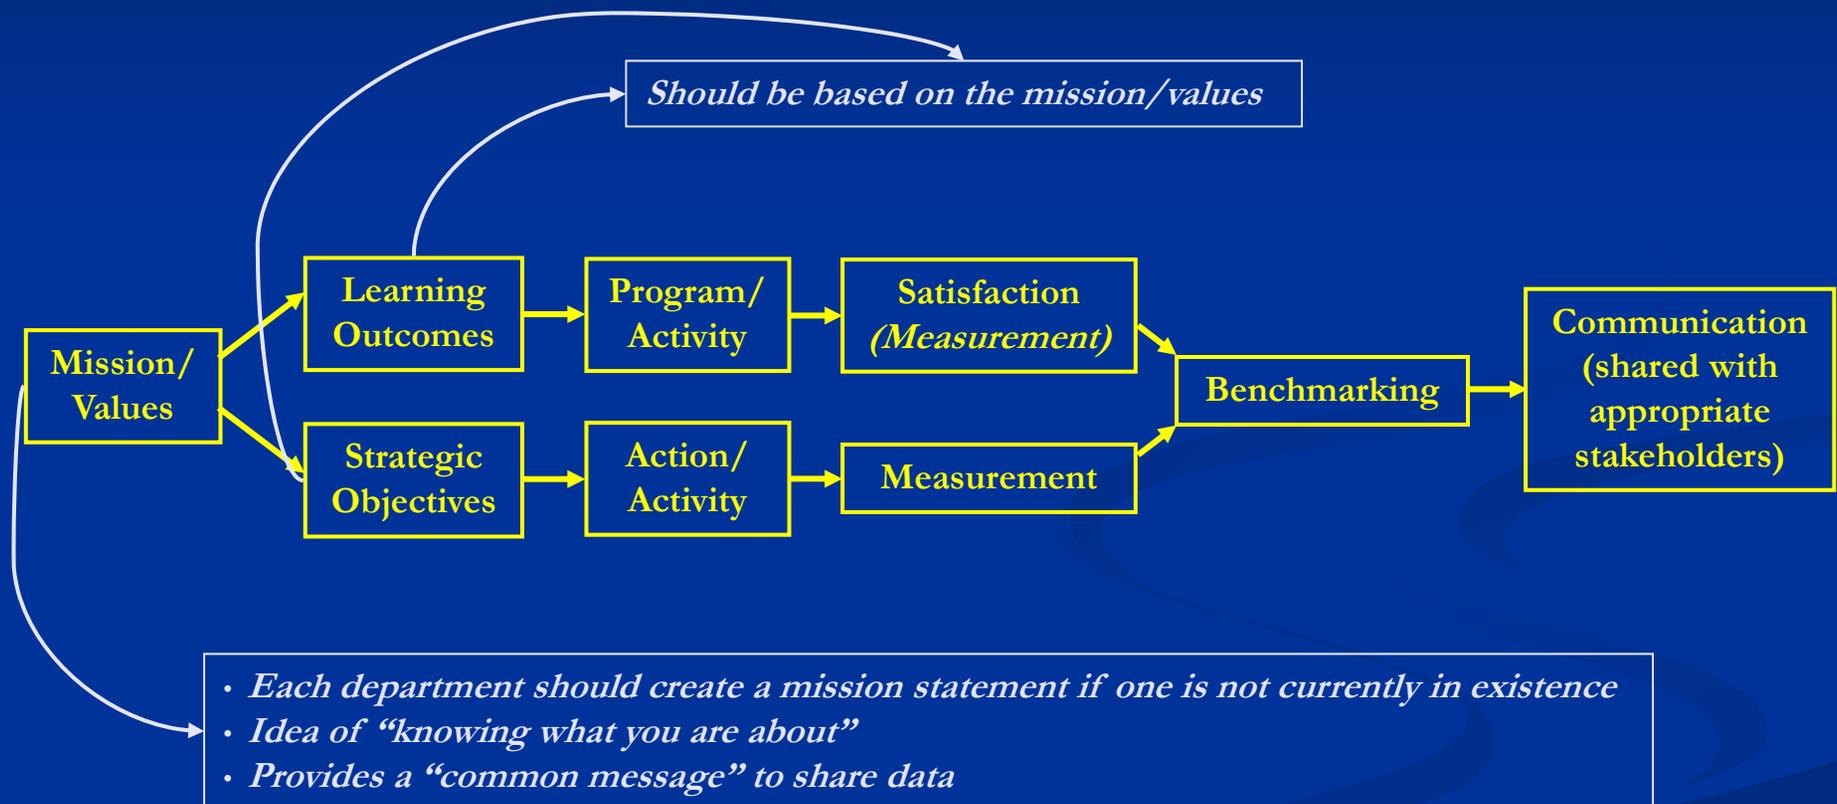

- Vehicle for communication of assessment data
- Can be formal or informal
- Should accomplish the following:
 - Link data to decision making
 - Connect data to continual redefinition of strategic goals
 - Connect data to continual redefinition of learning outcomes
 - Provide means to improve our impact on students

Formal Report

Implementing the Assessment
Model in the Office of Residence
Life at Syracuse University

Office of Residence Life – Develop a Guiding Model for Assessment

Developed through the Division of Student Affairs Strategic Planning Process Syracuse University

Assessment Planning

- Example: Diversity Survey for Campus Climate
- Link to Assessment Model (mission/vision)
 - Syracuse University's 5 Core Values: Quality, Caring, Diversity, Innovation, Service
 - One of nine Division of Student Affairs priorities for strategic planning
 - Mission of Residence Life:
 - To foster student development, support academic success, and celebrate diversity by creating intentional programs and experiences within a community of learners that involves students, faculty, and staff.
 - Residence Life Guiding Philosophy: The Community Action Plan
 - 5 Goals of Personal Development, Academic Development, Community Development, Multicultural Awareness, and Alcohol and Other Drug Awareness

Project Implementation

- Diversity Survey
 - Conducted annually since Spring 2001
 - Purpose is to assess climate in the residence halls and on-campus as it relates to diversity
 - Spring 2003 survey contained 65 multiple-choice and open-ended questions
 - Timeline:
 - October – begin discussion for additions/revisions to previous year's instrument
 - November – December – Meet with external offices
 - January – Revise instrument and present drafts to stakeholders
 - February/March – administer instrument via the web
 - April/May – Disseminate informal report (Orange Slice[©])
 - April – July – Analyze results
 - July/August – Share formal report with department and summary report with Division of Student Affairs

Implementation Considerations

- Sampling
 - Stratified Sampling – represents the survey population based on specific variables, is random and representative
- Survey and Question Design
- Scales
 - Likert scales
- Method of Data Collection
 - Web based

Results and Implications

- Data from the annual Diversity Survey has been used to create and support our nationally recognized “No Place for Hate” campaign, a program for anti-bias education
- Spring 2001 results:
 - 37% of students dissatisfied with diversity programming
 - 31% of residential students reported observing an incident of discrimination in 2000-2001
 - 35% of residential students did not feel comfortable sharing a “different perspective” with their peers

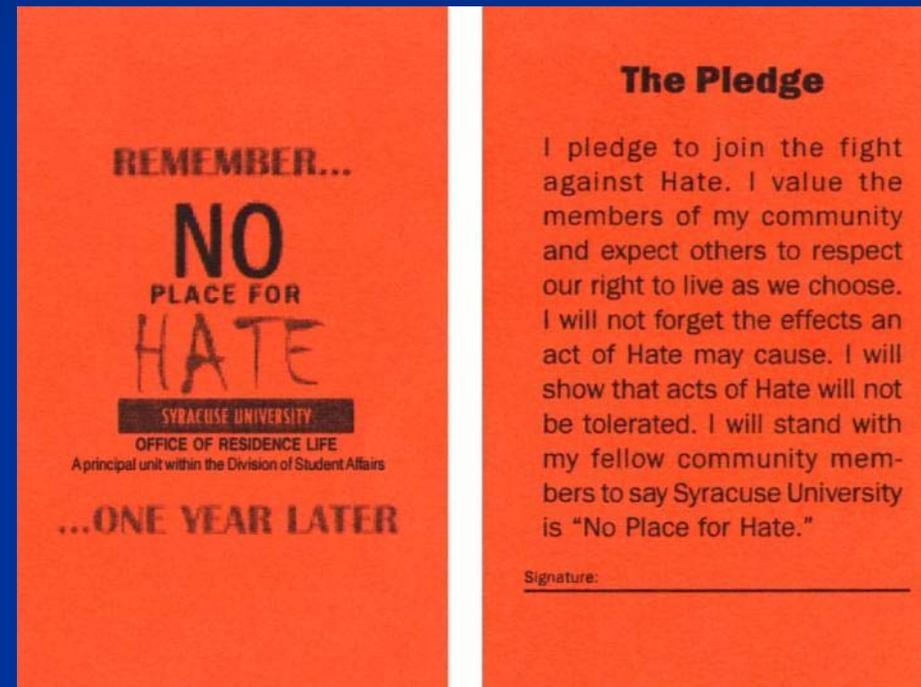

Results and Implications

- Implications for paraprofessional training
 - Increased support for RA programming on Multicultural issues
 - Increased training support for RAs in how to lead impactful conversations about diversity related issues
 - RAs wearing “No Place For Hate” t-shirts during opening weekend and explained at the first floor meeting that hate and bias are not welcome at SU
 - First floor meeting discussions that bias and hate were not welcome in the residence hall communities, and about the importance of building a community free of hate and bias
 - Distribution of “No Place For Hate” stickers for residence hall doors as a visible support of developing communities free of bias

- Assessment results added to our knowledge and provided foundation for further programmatic changes:
 - Diversity poster series created with messages supporting acceptance of diverse backgrounds
 - “No Place For Hate Banner” sponsored in the University Quad for student to sign and pledge support against hate and bias
